

Scanned Page One: Chemistry

Water is composed of two hydrogen atoms and one oxygen atom.

The pH scale measures acidity from zero to fourteen.

Helium is the second lightest element in the universe.

Scanned Page Two: Astronomy

Mars has two small moons named Phobos and Deimos.

The Sun contains ninety nine percent of the solar system mass.

Light travels at approximately three hundred thousand km per second.